Grower (all genders) at Gut Haidehof

Employment

From April 1 to October 31. 2026, fulltime (40 h/week)

Weekend duties on a rota basis shared amongst the team.

Gut Haidehof

In Wedel, just outside Hamburg, a certified organic model farm for regenerative agriculture is being created on Gut Haidehof: a wide variety of vegetables are carefully cultivated by hand on around 20 hectares, while free-range poultry and a herd of cattles graze on the farm's own grassland. The produce can be purchased in the shop directly on the farm. In addition, our products are delivered to renowned restaurants in and around Hamburg and to around 100 subscribers to our vegetable boxes.

Your responsibilities

- Care, management, and further development of our horticultural areas in line with regenerative agriculture
- Cultivation, care, and harvesting of vegetables and herbs (outdoors and, where applicable, in greenhouses)
- Soil improvement and maintenance of living soils through composting, mulching, and other regenerative methods
- Assistance with post harvest processing
- Maintenance and care of tools, irrigation systems, and horticultural infrastructure

What we are looking for

- At least one season experience in commercial vegetable growing
- Ability to work well within a team and independently on your own
- Being responsible, reliable and self motivated
- Fluent in english - we are an international team and english is our work language
- Good communication skills, high work ethics and a desire to do things well
- Comfortable to work outside in all weather and to take on a physically demanding role
- A strong interest for regenerative agriculture and ethical food production

What we offer

- Shared on-farm or close-by accommodation provided
- A joint learning experience and development of regenerative horticulture
- Work alongside our experienced growers and be part of a young international team
